Local Option Privilege For Municipalities

Toronto, Dec. 20.—The select committee of the Legislature appointed to investigate proposed amendments to the assessment act met at the Parliament building yesterday and whitewashed the present law. There will be no tax reform, but instead the chairman of the committee, Hon. W. J. Hanna, will issue a circular letter to every municipality, directing them to make a complete survey of their own needs and to make such improvements as they may see fit to make. The committee, however, did approve the repeal of section 30 of the present act, in disallowing proposals for the creation of new municipalities, and for the purpose of making the right to create new municipalities a local option privilege for municipalities.

THE GETTE ARMY

Three Left In N. Y.—Albany March

Fishkill Landing, N. Y., Dec. 19.—Three survivors of the Suffragette army arrived here in the night of darkness and a rip-roaring snowstorm at 6.40 o'clock this evening. They had walked 24 miles during the day over roads almost impassable on account of snow. This record-breaking performance had exhausted all of them. General Jones, who had barely recovered from badly-battered heels, nearly collapsed in the public square, and had to be carried to the hotel, where she revived under the ministrations of Surgeon-General Dock. She had her boots on when she fell.

It might take a month to find them.

Mexican Unrest Must be Stopped

The Sultan of Turkey with the historic flag flown by the battleship Mahomedieh at the bombardment of Scutari in 1908.

The captain of the flagship was presented to the Sultan, who congratulated him and the rest of the Turkish navy on the outcome of the action.

It appears that the Turkish flagship was struck by two Greek shells and the damage done to the vessel was insignificant. One man on board was killed and others wounded.

During the action "battles" the commander of the Turkish and Greek fleets exchanged pleasantries by wireless telegraph. The Greek Admiral telegraphed: "Your shells are falling fine. I would recommend you to take care of them."

"We have captured the island of Tenedos, and await your orders," to which the Turkish Admiral replied: "Your shells are falling fine. I would recommend you to take care of them."

TURKISH ADMIRAL SLAIN.

Athens, Dec. 20.—Vice-Admiral Halli Pasha, formerly Minister of Marine in the Turkish Cabinet, was killed in the naval engagement between the Greeks and Turks off the Dardanelles on Dec. 18. This is the report received from a Greek captain, who has just arrived from the Dardanelles, and made public through a semi-official agency.

Vice-Admiral Halli Pasha was on board the flagship Kheyred-Din-Bahar, which, according to the same authority, was very seriously damaged.

Four other officers aboard the flagship were killed and a large number of sailors were killed or wounded. A hospital ship was sent to take care of the wounded.

Three of the other Turkish ships engaged in the battle sustained serious damage. The flagship Barbarossa was shelled by shells on both the port and starboard sides. Fire broke out, but was controlled.

It was necessary to use the collision mat in order to keep the flagship from sinking.

The Greek captain asserted also that three Turkish destroyers were his during the fight.

GARIBOLDIANS DECEASED.

London, Dec. 20.—An Athens dispatch to the Daily Telegraph says that a check sustained by the Gariboldi Legation here by the loss of their officers and 400 men killed and wounded, gave rise to the rumor of a Turkish victory.

TURKISH MASSACRES REPORTED.

London, Dec. 19.—According to a Port of Spain dispatch to Lloyd's a wireless message from the Greek Government to Macedonia, says that the Turks have massacred 300 Christians in Mytilene. The number killed is not known.

INDUSTRIAL COMMON SENSE

WISE MEASURES TAKEN BY ONE CANADIAN MANUFACTURING COMPANY TO PRESERVE INTACT THE EARNING POWER OF ITS EMPLOYEES

There was a period in the industrial development of Canada when employers, engrossed with the many vexing problems incident to establishing and putting their business on a sound basis, gave little or no attention to the physical or moral welfare of their employees. Rapid strides away from this condition have been made in the last few years. Many employers have come to realize that they owe more than wages and that their employees are entitled to clean, light, sanitary, and safe places in which to work; to compensation when disabled and to provision for old age, as much as they are to the pay envelope.

The business value of this attitude is apparent. A careful business man sees that his property is maintained in good condition. His buildings are kept in repair and are fully insured against loss from fire. His machinery is always maintained at a high point of efficiency, no rust is allowed to accumulate, and plenty of oil and men are ready at all times to care for its needs. He installs sprinkling devices and maintains a well-trained fire brigade among his employees—in short, every dollar he invests in business is guarded so that it brings forth its full earning power.

The International Harvester Company of Canada, Limited, is one of that class of employers which has voluntarily carried these business principles a step further and applied them to men as well as to machinery and buildings. Men work better when their minds are free from worry. The chief worry of the average working man is the fear of suffering on the part of his loved ones if he should be incapacitated for work by sickness, accident, or otherwise. A provision made by the International Harvester Company secures each working man who wishes to have perfect freedom from this great worry. The Employees' Benefit Association guarantees an income to his family at the times when such an income is most needed. To take care of those employees who have grown too old to do efficient work the company has arranged that all men who reach the age of 65 and have been 20 years or more in the service may be retired from active work and receive a pension for the balance of their lives. Women may be retired at the age of 55 years.

The safety of employees while at work is safeguarded in every possible way. There are no uncovered gears in any International Harvester Company's Works. Safety devices are used in every position where there would be the slightest danger without them. In places where it is necessary to use emery wheels, grindstones, and other tools which produce unhealthy dust, the dust is taken away as soon as it is made by exhaust fans which remove all of this dangerous matter.

The Works are provided with modern sanitary equipment which provided in every way for the health, cleanliness and physical well-being of all International Harvester Company employees. The common drinking cup has been abolished. Water that is proved to be pure is supplied at all the Works. A plentiful supply of light and fresh air is provided in every place where men or women work. Cases of sickness or accident are taken care of in their own first-aid hospital where everything necessary is done by the Company's physician and nurse to take care of the sick or injured until their regular physician can take charge of the case. It is the policy of the International Harvester Company to preserve the efficiency of its employees in every possible manner. There are safety committees in each one of the shops who are expected to make weekly suggestions relative to appliances for protection of workmen or for the betterment of physical conditions in every way that can possibly tend to improve the quality or quantity of work done.

This feature of the Company's activities is one that is not so generally known as it should be. We want to do everything we can to prevent accident and preserve the health and general welfare of our employees, because such employees do more and better work for us during working hours. At the same time we are not averse to having it understood that we have done voluntarily a great deal more along this line than is required of us by law, and have covered many points that the law does not touch. It is a source of satisfaction to us to have the International Harvester Company's Hamilton Works pointed out by workmen as a model place to work.
